HALF FANATICS

NOVEMBER 2014 NEWSLETTER

Featured Fanatic

Aurea Nicolet-Dones, Half Fanatic #2435

In November 2008, at the age of 24, my doctor called me to tell me that I had an A1c of 9.4 and that I had Type 2 diabetes. I was placed on medications and had to monitor my blood sugar levels multiple times a day. By early 2009, my A1c was down in the 6's and I got pregnant with my daughter in the summer. Around halfway through my pregnancy, I was placed on insulin. I had to take my blood sugars 4 times a day and send them to my doctor for monitoring. We adjusted my insulin on a weekly basis. By the end of my pregnancy, I was on 80 units of insulin before bedtime. It was so much insulin, that I had to take it in 2 separate shots. I had my daughter in May 2010 and was back on metformin only.

In October 2010, after months of neglecting to take my medications as prescribed because I was busy taking care of an infant and working full time, things got worse when I caught a cold. A coworker noticed I was talking funny and asked me to take my blood sugars. My glucose meter read: HIGH over 600mg/dl. I called my doctor who told me to go to the ER right away. At the ER, every nurse and doctor made sure that I understood I could have gone into a coma or died. After rounds of insulin and IVs, I was released....only to have my family hound me as well. My family kept telling me that I could have left my daughter without a mother, I could have died. I followed up with my doctor after the ER and since my blood sugars continued to run high, I was placed on insulin. I hated it! I had to take it before all meals. I hated excusing myself multiple times a day to shoot up in the bathroom or my car. I was ashamed and embarrassed. That was it, I was not going to be on insulin for the rest of my life.

I was committed to becoming a new healthier me. I started exercising regularly. In 2011, I lost 40 pounds, went from a size 22 to a size 10, got off insulin, got off metformin, and ran two 5k's. My running addiction started shortly after. In January 2012, I started a half marathon training program. I ran two half marathons that year in May and became a Half Fanatic. I found out I was pregnant in July and I gave birth to my son in March 2013. I started running again 2 months after giving birth. I was very slow, but I forced myself to sign up for a half marathon training group to get back into the swing of running. Between August and December of that year, I completed 10 half marathons!

So far in 2014, I've completed 11 half marathons and 5 full marathons. Over Thanksgiving weekend, I completed the Seattle Quadzuki (4 half marathons in 4 consecutive days). Completing Quadzuki was such an accomplishment, but it still pales in comparison to continuing to fight my diabetes with diet and exercise alone. I've replaced insulin with race medals, running shoes, and a much different finish line!
